

LAST OF HERO DEAD ARE LAID AT REST

REMAINS OF SAILORS WHO LOST THEIR LIVES ON ILL FATED SHIP BURIED.

HONOR IN CEREMONY

Whole Nation Paid Tribute to the Men Who Gave Their Lives Up in Havana Harbor in 1898.

Washington, March 23.—With all the pomp and solemnity that a mighty nation can pay its heroes of war the last of the dead of the Maine were laid away today in Arlington Cemetery. Side by side with the bodies of those brought back from Havana Harbor after the war with Spain they were consigned to the earth of the "Old Dominion" while the nation paid its last measure of honor to the "unidentified" of that great catastrophe that brought on a war, changed the map of the world and extended the territory of the United States in all corners of the earth.

Seldom in the history of this country has been planned a higher tribute to the memory of any man or men than that for the sixty-four dead of the Maine. Government business in Washington was practically suspended by executive orders. President Taft, most of the members of his cabinet, the highest officers of the army and navy and marine corps, officials of departments and representatives of many foreign powers participated in the exercises. Over the government building flags hung at half mast while Congress adjourned for the day.

The sound of minute guns and the tramp of soldiery added the touch

DETECTIVES SCOUR HILLS IN SEARCH OF ALLEN OUTLAWS

Fail to Find Any of Other Men Sought in Connection With Hillsville Crime.

Hillsville, Va., March 23.—No further captures had been reported early today by posses endeavoring to round up the Allen fugitives in the North Carolina border.

The arrest of young Sidna Edwards, left four of the men wanted at large—Sidna Allen, the clan leader, who is supposed to have fired the shot that killed Judge Muske, and his nephews, Wesley, Fred and Clam Allen.

The marching of hundreds of detectives searching the hills south of this place, indicates that the officers believe the outlaws are still secreted in this vicinity.

Has Not Seen Uncle. Sidna Edwards, who was found alone, unarmed and hungry, in a deserted mountain cabin house, insists that he has not seen his uncle or cousins since the day of the court house tragedy. He says he had no part in the shooting; that he went to the court house and later took to the mountains only because he heard rumors would shoot any member of his family on sight.

Worn with hunger, fatigue and the pain of a scalded foot, Edwards slept last night in jail here with two guards standing over him.

SHORTAGE OF COAL CAUSES DIRE WANT THROUGHOUT NATION

All England Feels Effects of Most Serious Tie-Up in History of Country.

London, Eng., March 23.—England is spending one of the gloomiest weeks in her history. In every town, village and hamlet throughout the country where skilled workmen are usually engaged in the great industries, unemployment is on the increase, and the families of the workers, who have been rendered idle by the strike of the million coal miners who quit work on March 1st, are, in many cases, facing starvation.

Residents of the city who usually spend Saturday afternoon and Sunday in the country, are unable today to leave town as the railways, pleading a shortage of coal, have canceled trains by the hundreds. The railways have decided also not to run special rate trains for the opening of the flat racing season next week.

The cotton mills at Nelson, Bolton and other centers in Lancashire are closing rapidly, while most of the factories in Leeds have either stopped entirely or are running on half time. Pioneers everywhere have drawn their fires and this week end a large number of factories and shops in southern counties of England, which heretofore have not been affected, have paid off their men.

The navy, too, is beginning to feel the effects of the strike. Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, has answered to a question in the House of Commons, announced the strike unquestionably would retard the work on new ships being built for the navy and on the naval bases under construction.

POSSIBLE TO AVERT BITUMINOUS STRIKE

President of Union at Cleveland Stated Today That Continued Conference Was a Hopeful Sign.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 23.—Although the conference of operatives and miners, called to settle the wage dispute in the bituminous coal fields, had adjourned over until next Tuesday, officials of the United Mine Workers of America continued to hold its session here today.

The union's policy committee, which has power to make recommendations for referendum voting by the union, will convene here Monday to consider the demands of the miners. In the anthracite fields recently denied by the operators.

John P. White, president of the union, said he still was hopeful that suspension on April 1, when the present wage scale expires, might be avoided.

The desire of the operatives of the bituminous mines to continue negotiations next week, he said, indicated the possibility of a settlement, but he knew of no present plan to resume negotiations with the operators for an adjustment of the differences of the anthracite miners.

HONOR TO MAINE'S DEAD.

Procession from City Hall of Havana to the wharf showing the coffins containing the remains of the Maine's brave sailors who went to their watery graves on February 15, 1898. From Havana the remains were conveyed on the cruiser Birmingham to Washington where they will be interred in Arlington National Cemetery, March 23rd, after an elaborate ceremony by the State, War and Navy departments.

Lower picture shows the remains on board the Birmingham after their arrival in the U. S.

of military pomp and circumstance. Elaborate preparations had been made for the ceremony. Beginning at the removal of the dead from the United States Birmingham which brought the bodies up from Havana and ended with the firing of three volleys of musketry over the new mass graves, the exercises were designed to do all honor and respect to the martyrs of the doomed battleship.

The escorts for the march through the streets of the capital from the department of state and navy buildings were flanked by the Birmingham and other vessels. There were only three speakers to face the audience, they were President Taft, Father Chadwick, chaplain of the Maine when the explosion took place on Feb. 15, 1898, which sent her to the bottom, and Captain Bayard of the United States navy.

The Marine band, the show band of Washington, was chosen to furnish the solemn music for the dead and the army battery near the Washington monument was selected to give the salute of twenty-one guns as the ceremonies of the day ended and the quiet march to Arlington began.

Conspicuous among the officials for whom special places had been made were behind President Taft, was Rear Admiral Charles D. Sigsbee, who commanded the Maine at the time of the explosion, Rear Admiral Richard Wainwright, Lieutenant, Boyd and Medical Director L. G. Hemberger, officers under him at the time. For Admiral Dewey and Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles, the ranking officers of the navy and army, special places had been set aside.

During the memorial service the committee had arranged for the playing of the "Paul Revere" Bell of All Souls Cathedral church, which has been tolled at the funerals of presidents, generals and other prominent men. Windmills slowly out from behind the navy building into the broad Pennsylvania avenue, the funeral procession found its way through the older parts of Washington across the aqueduct bridge over Potomac river and up the Gray Road to Arlington.

To Rear Admiral Bradley had been assigned the command of the parade drives and sporting events. The paper-railroad commission today ordered the papers appear undisturbed over the secretary of state visit and most of them publish pictures of Washington, Lincoln, Knox, Gomez and Bolivar.

Nasal Catarrh and Indigestion.

Mr. James P. Bracken, 412 W. 43d St., New York City, N. Y., writes: "For nearly a dozen years catarrh has bothered me in one form or another. I was troubled with nasal catarrh that had affected my stomach, which troubled me most in the morning. My appetite was poor, and I did not seem to relish my food. Indigestion bothered me at times, also. I was advised to take Peruna, and I took it as prescribed for a month, when my cure was almost complete. Today there is not a trace of catarrh in my system, and I can say without hesitation that Peruna cured me."

Local Basketball Five Make One of Best Records in Years—Defeated by Beloit Last Night.

With a record of nine out of ten games to their credit the local high school basketball team is approaching the end of their season. A tournament at Beloit and the Appleton meet, to which they go next week, will finish their program for what has been one of the most successful years in the history of the Janesville high school. In all of their games, with the exception of the first with the Alumni, they have been able to run up large scores over their opponents, making in all a total of 385 points to the 170 secured by the other teams.

Local basketball fans considered the game with the Y. M. C. A., which was billed for a date just one week after practice had begun by the high school lads would be a defeat for them without a doubt. But the J. H. S. five came to the game with such determination that they were able to take the long end of a 42 to 10 score, despite the croakers. When they came up against the Alumni shortly afterward they were forced to take their only defeat during the season, losing to the older boys by a score of 54 to 32. With this game ranking in their records the high school lads determined to show that they could play the game and went into the practice with marked results, as shown by the game at Beloit the next week, for this contest the local lads things all their own way and came home with the better side of the 35 to 15 score, after having again been suc-

Janesville succeeded in making the finals in the Beloit college basketball tournament by defeating Elkhorn 27 to 19 yesterday afternoon and had for an opponent last night, her old rival, Beloit. And Beloit took the honors of the meet by a single point, defeating Janesville 54 to 32.

The game with Elkhorn in the afternoon was a hard one for Janesville and the boys were pretty well tired out for the Beloit game. In addition to this Editor and Hummel have just recovered from a slog of showing which accounts for their poor showing last night.

Beloit played with a rush at the

TUESDAY'S CARD HAS MANY ATTRACTIONS

Forfeits of All the Contestants Are Deposited, Assuring No Change in Arrangements.

Matchmaker Robert Lockett of the Janesville Athletic Club has received all the cash forfeits of the contestants in the coming boxing contest that is to be staged on Tuesday night at the West Side Rink. The card as arranged should prove most interesting and draw good sized crowds from out the city. "Kid" De Munn is facing becoming a favorite in the quarter circle with local boxing enthusiasts and he has been putting in his best flicks to be in shape to meet Billy Morhead of Milwaukee. The two boys will weigh in at one hundred and forty-two pounds and with a ten round leeway should do some clever execution. Jack Regan of Milwaukee is an ambitious youngster that is touted as a comer and his as with Bill Harrison means much to him as the Chicago boy has had considerable more experience than the Green City youngster. They weigh in at one hundred and thirty-five pounds and have eight rounds to finish it in. Ben Bogardus, also a Chicago scrapper is matched with Frankie Solder of Sycamore. Solder is not entirely new to the game but he needs lots and hundreds and thirty pounds, these youngsters should prove to be as fast and exciting a bout as is on the evening's card. Jack Dougherty of Madison is referee.

House Struck by Meteorite. Sweeping down out of the sky with a sharp hiss, a small meteorite crashed against the blind on the house of Alfred H. Richards, near Wakefield, Mass., and set the house on fire. The village firemen were called out, and no serious damage was done. The meteorite glanced off from the house to the ground. It weighed about five pounds and is almost perfectly round.

One Distinction. "What was King Solomon renowned for, above all things else?" asked the elderly visitor who was making a little talk to the children of the Sunday school. "He was related by marriage to more people than any other man that ever lived," promptly spoke up the fair-haired little girl in the front row of seats.

The "Submerged Tenth." The experience of all schemes for the relief of distress due to unemployment clearly proved that the great majority of the unemployed, or at least those who sought relief from distress, were very markedly inferior both as regards their industrial capacity and their physical and moral qualifications to the average employed workmen in the same trades.

Logical Deduction. "That man doesn't own an auto and has no chance of ever buying one," "What makes you say that?" "It's easy to tell. Didn't you see how heartily he laughed when he saw his friend's auto stall?" "The mud?" "—Dr. trait Free Press.

PATHFINDER

Five Passenger Touring Car $1750

On a Par With Her Brother

Every woman of spirit has resented the inference that gasoline cars are intended only for men. As a matter of fact, no one can assign a real reason why women should not take all the freedom of the road that their brothers and husbands enjoy. The trouble has been that designers of cars have not taken women into consideration. Prior to the PATHFINDER she had to content herself with the town electric. Now it is all different. The PATHFINDER, with its sweet, obedient disposition, responsive control, its self-starter, and its absolute freedom from mechanical trouble, has put woman on a par with man. It requires no attention on the road except the hand on the wheel. And, best of all, it is built so staunchly that the element of danger is entirely eliminated. Enlarge your zone. Be independent. DIFFICULT PROBLEMS FOR COMMISSIONERS

New Mayor and Councilmen on Taking Office Will Have Much Reorganization to Undertake—Its Probable Direction.

Difficult problems of reorganization of the city government and readjusting municipal business to new conditions await the new mayor and councilmen whose election takes place a week from next Tuesday. The wheels of administration cannot stop for a moment and the city's work must be carried on just as if no changes were being made.

The principal question which presents itself for solution is the appointment among the mayor, councilmen and their subordinates of the business now carried for by the common council and city officers. Tentative plans for this purpose have been proposed and it is probable that in the general lines it will follow the ones here presented.

The mayor and each councilman will head one of three departments: Public Affairs and Safety, Public Finance and Public Works. Grouped under the head of Public Affairs and Safety are the Police Department, Fire Department, License and Saloons, Board of Health, Judiciary (Municipal Court, City Attorney), Legislation, Ordinances and Elections.

Included in the department of Public Finance will be, City Treasurer and Accounting, Records, (City Clerk), Printing, Assessments and Estimates, (Board of Review), School Board, Library Board.

Public Works would include Streets, Parks, Sewers, Repairs and Cleaning, Slaughterhouses, Building and other Structures, Public Utilities (Lighting Street Railway and water), Engineering Department, Inspection, Weights and Measures, Permits.

The time and frequency of meeting is also left to the discretion of the Mayor and Councilmen. It is expected that the commission will hold regular meetings at least once a week at which definite action will be taken on measures under consideration, but that daily adjourned meetings will also be held, which will be in the nature of hearings where citizens can make complaints or propose suggestions.

The new city government will inherit from the Common Council a large amount of unfinished work. It will have to complete the construction of the Racine Street and South Avenue bridges, lay 3 blocks of brick pavement on North Main street, make provisions for the construction of the bridge over Spring brook on South Main street, and superintend the completion of about a mile of sewers under the contract of Tibby brothers. These are only a small part of the duties which the new government must assume.

"Palling" under the title of "Public Works" would come Streets, Parks, Sewers, Repairs and Cleaning, Slaughterhouses, Building and other Structures, Public Utilities (Lighting Street Railway and water), Engineering Department, Inspection, Weights and Measures, Permits.

The ninety-third anniversary of the founding of American Odd Fellowship will be celebrated in Janesville, April 24, with an elaborate program of addresses, music, and literary selections given jointly under the auspices of Odd Fellow lodges No. 99 and 14, and Rebekah lodges No. 24 and 171 at the Myers theatre. The program, which will be completed within a week, is being prepared under the direction of a joint committee consisting of three representatives from each lodge. Odd Fellow lodge No. 14 is represented by William Grove, W. H. Blair, and C. W. Brooks; No. 99 by Carl Pabst, C. V. Cary, and A. W. Allison; Rebekah lodge No. 24, by Mrs. Mary Gilchrist, Mrs. J. P. Welch, and Mrs. Eliza Warren; No. 171 by Mrs. Pearl Hoyer, Mrs. Florence Watson, and Miss Minnie Holmfeld.

Assurances have been received that State Grand Master John Luchinsberger of Monroe will be present on this occasion, and Mrs. Emory Perry, of Rosendale, president of the Wisconsin Rebekah assembly, is also expected to come. The Rev. J. W. Laughlin, pastor of the Presbyterian church, will give an address, as will also J. F. Carlo, and others whose names have not yet been announced. Music will be furnished by the Odd Fellows' orchestra and the Odd Fellows' male quartet.

The Order of Odd Fellows was founded at Baltimore in 1819 with five charter members. Thomas Willis is generally acknowledged as its founder. In December, 1910, it had a membership of 1,593,169. The Rebekah order, founded in 1817, had on the above mentioned date, 666,237 members.

TAKE LEGAL STEPS IN TRUANCY CASES

County Superintendent Announces That Arrest May Be Made In One Case in County.

Reports on the attendance of scholars in the schools of the county have been sent to the county superintendent showing the attendance of the scholars for each day until quite recently. Some interesting facts are to be learned from these reports, as they show very clearly where there is a good school spirit and interest in the district.

In many districts the attendance has been very good, and quite a number of scholars did not miss a single day, in spite of the adverse weather and bad roads. In a few schools the attendance has been poor, often showing that the people were not aware of the importance of regular attendance which is so necessary not only to good work in school, but also to form right habits and good character.

Where children are absent much care is taken to find out whether they have legal excuses for their absence. If they have not their parents are warned that the children must be kept in school more regularly. In most cases this warning is sufficient to secure better attendance.

But if the children are still kept out when it is not necessary to do so, then the cases have been reported to the sheriff and district attorney, as well as to the state industrial commission, as required by law. These officials have taken up a number of these cases recently. Unless the law is complied with, arrest will follow.

In one case where the father has come and promised to keep his boy in school regularly hereafter, the warrant for the father's arrest (which is now in the hands of the sheriff) is being held back to give the father a chance to redeem himself.

No man can live for himself alone, he has duties and responsibilities to others. If he fails to perform those duties the law rightly steps in to enforce the rights of others. That is the purpose of the compulsory education law, which requires that each child shall be in the country districts between the ages of seven and fourteen in attendance of school during the first month of school, and shall thereafter attend regularly for at least one hundred and twenty days in each school year. This is making the school work stronger and better in those districts where the people are enforcing the law.

PRISON LIFE

By Warden Daniel Woodward of Waupun Prison, Baptist Church Sunday night.

CLEANLINESS URGED BY HEALTH OFFICER TO PREVENT DISEASE

Dr. M. A. Cunningham Gives Warning to Citizens to Clean Away Debris at Once to Prevent Epidemics.

At this time I desire, through the columns of your paper, to make some suggestions regarding the sanitary conditions of our city. We have passed through a rather long, severe winter without any epidemics of sickness as some of our neighboring cities have had, and now what is desired is to avoid epidemics during the spring months.

During the cold winter months the ashes, garbage, fruit cans, and much other rubbish, has been piled in the back yard or other convenient place. Spring is now replacing winter and the hot sun's rays will change the frozen garbage into decayed matter which will become the resort of disease germs.

If we wish to avoid outbreaks of disease, such as diphtheria, scarlet fever, typhoid fever, etc., it will be necessary that the back yards, as well as the front yards, be put in a sanitary condition early—not in May or June but just as soon as the snow leaves. If you will give this matter attention early, it will mean much to our city.

It will be the means of preventing much sickness and deaths. It will be the means of a good attendance at school, which means much to teacher and pupil. Time lost in school is scarcely over made up.

I have heard teachers say they never worked so hard as this winter, due to the fact that many of the pupils lost time last year on account of sickness. Let us try to avoid this condition this year by having a better and earlier cleaning up of our city.

Clean up your own premises early, and if your neighbor fails to do likewise within a reasonable time, report him to the health officer. Now, just a word, as to how to report to the health officer. Don't go yourself, or send anyone to see him, for he may be too busy just then to see you. Don't telephone him or have your neighbor do it for you, as we do not wish to have the name of the person who reports him to the health officer.

The law specifies that all such reports shall be in writing. So when you have any "klick" or report to make about your neighbor's yard, do it in writing and don't forget to sign your name and give your address. Also give the name and address of the offending party; and if he is living in a rented house give the name and address of the person to whom he pays the rent money. Unless your name is signed to the letter it will not receive any attention.

Last year we had epidemics of measles, whooping cough, scarlet fever, etc., and in but very few instances were they reported to the health officer. In many instances not even to the family physician, for fear some members of the family might be kept home from parties, etc. In some instances death followed this neglect of reporting the family physician and scores of people were in this way exposed to the disease.

The following diseases are to be reported to the health officer in writing by the physician in charge or in case there be no physician called, by the parents or person in charge of the sick: diphtheria, scarlet fever, typhoid fever, measles, whooping cough, small pox, tuberculosis (consumption), meningitis and anterior poliomyelitis. For not reporting these diseases within 24 hours there is a fine of from $5 to $25 for each day's neglect.

DR. M. A. CUNNINGHAM,
Health Officer.

EXPLANATORY NOTES.

Observations taken at 8 a. m., 7th meridian time. Air pressure reduced to sea level. Isotherms (continuous lines) pass through points of equal air pressure. Isotherms (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature. Arrows show the direction of the wind. First figure, temperature past 12 hours; second, precipitation of .01 inch or more for past 24 hours; third, maximum wind velocity.

March 23, 1912.—The marked activity of the atmosphere that prevailed earlier in the week has given place to inactivity. The atmospheric pressure is generally above normal in the east and north, and the weather correspondingly fair, but a V-shaped depression extends from Hudson Bay over the Gulf states and in the southwest. Rain is reported in the Gulf states, and snow or sleet on the southern slope of the Rockies. The unusually heavy rainfall of 4.22 inches in 24 hours is reported at New Orleans. In this vicinity the weather will probably continue cloudy, possibly with light snow showers tonight and Sunday. There will not be much change in temperature.

Where the Bell Rings.
This spot on the map of the United States is, and always will be, the clearing house of the country. Touch a commercial, industrial or financial button to a bell anywhere from Maine to Texas, or Montana Point to the Golden Gate, and it rings right here. So, as the nation grows and does more and more of everything, the ring of the bells here will be louder and louder.—New York Press.

Are You Sick? Do You Want To Be Well?

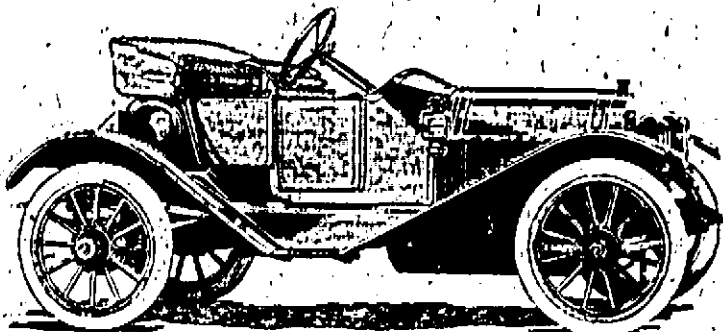

You'd give most anything to have the agonies and pains of your disease turned into the joys of robust health. What's required is action on your part. Make up your mind to see the Chiropractors at once. This wonderful science of ours is certain in its action. The secret of disease lies in the spine. A sudden wrench, fall, contracted muscles or twist, the vertebrae of the spine are thrown out of position. This is called a subluxation. For a time this subluxation pressing upon the nerve tissues may cause no inconvenience. Slowly but surely, however, the tissue or organ which should receive this nerve impulse that is shut off becomes weakened and disease results. The Chiropractor by a deft movement adjusts this subluxation and Nature in turn builds up the nerve and health to the organ or part. It's simple but it does the work—what you most desire—removes disease. Write for our free book.

Ford

The Ford Model T Car costs you less money than any other four-cylinder car in the world because it is simplest in design and built in greatest numbers—75,000 will be manufactured for 1912.

Abraham Lincoln's speeches were strong through sheer simplicity and plainness. Every word he put into his talks said something. He left out all the frills and fancy phrases. Same with Ford Motor Cars. Everything but essential parts is banished. That accounts in large measure for the unique efficiency of the Ford and for its low first cost and low cost of up-keep afterwards.

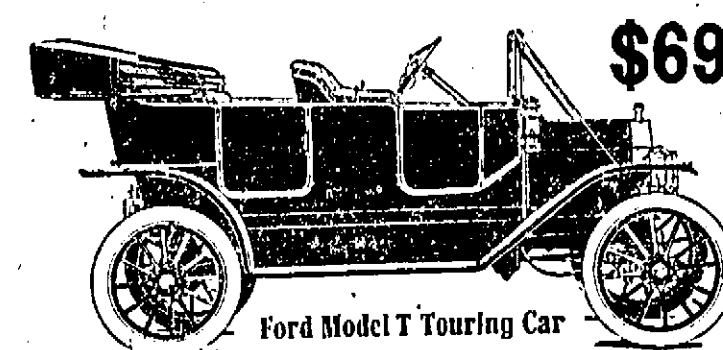

The more you put into an automobile the more it costs. But the less efficient the car really becomes. That added material must be paid for by the buyer; the buyer also has to pay for the labor of handling, assembling and adjusting the unnecessary parts. And later he must pay repair bills on those useless parts which had no business on the car at all. Therefore the simple FORD, with fewer parts than any 4-cylinder automobile, stands out as the best automobile.

Just as we have succeeded in getting the FORD Model T simpler and lighter, so we have approached automobile perfection. Those are the two great essentials for motor car efficiency. A car can't be a practical car for all the people if it isn't simple in design and it can't be of economical maintenance if it isn't light.

Now for $690 you can get a FORD Model T Touring Car, fully equipped even to the speedometer and windshield. For $590 you can buy a FORD Model T Commercial Roadster, also equipped to the last detail and for $590 you can buy the FORD Model T Torpedo. Same model of chassis for all bodies. Those prices result from simplicity, the light weight made possible by Vanadium steel, and enormous production in the world's most efficient automobile factory.

The FORD Model T does the work. That's all there is to it. The car made its own way; it took its place right from the start as a commodity of commerce; a car of usefulness; an investment; a dividend payer, not a play-thing. Immediate delivery.

WOMAN'S PAGE

HEART AND HOME TALKS BY BARBARA BOYD

The Woman's Problem Is Health.

A FAMOUS physician says the woman's problem to-day is not marriage, or divorce, or the servant-girl question, or the high cost of living, or how to bring up children, but just plain health.

He may have a bias in this direction because he is a physician. But, nevertheless, what he says is worth listening to. For it is quite true that the woman who is perfectly well physically is hard to find. And it is also true that the woman who is perfectly well physically can master any problem put up to her. If a woman has abundant vitality, if she never knows a headache, or a backache, or a flagging appetite, she can take off a day's work at the typewriter or behind the counter with ease and ability. The woman whose muscles are strong, head clear and nerves steady, can witness the departure of her maid without a quail. She knows she can plunge into her housework, put it through, and be none the worse for it. She may not like to do it, but she knows she can do it. And, as a rule, when a woman's health is superb, she has a relish for work. Often, tasks are distasteful, because they are a burden. One's strength is not equal to them. If work is no undue tax upon the strength, almost any normal woman rather enjoys plunging into it and accomplishing something. The woman who is overflowing with vitality doesn't care to sit around and do nothing.

Opportunities are opening for woman to-day in advance of her strength, and she is taking advantage of them, either because she wishes to, or must, when her physical organization hasn't been trained to meet the demands of this new and strenuous life. The women of to-day who are holding down big jobs did not have the proper physical training or care in their girlhood, and now that work, that was unknown for women forty or fifty years ago, is piled upon them, they are paying the penalty. They break down, and then the wall goes up that women are not fitted for business life.

Things will be different when the present generation of girls takes its place in the world of work. The girl of to-day is being trained into physical perfection. She knows hygiene. She knows the value of outdoor life. She goes in for athletics. She is laying the foundation of a superb physique that will stand her in good stead when she gets into the active work of the world. And she will stand the strain, and do better work than does the woman of to-day, though the woman of to-day is a hero for doing what she is doing with her insufficient physical preparation.

So the doctor has much on his side, when he says woman's real problem is health. We all know the women who are working with aching heads and aching backs and flagging spirits. And these women are working in the home, as well as in the store or office or factory. And how much more successful they would be and how much more they would enjoy their work, if they had perfect health.

So it is up to them to solve their problem. It is not too late for them to improve their health, not necessarily with drugs, but with nature's remedies of fresh air, sunshine and pure water.

And so, though suffrage and child welfare and many such problems wait, let us first set our physical house in order; and then we will take up all things that come to us with a zest that makes their doing a pleasure.

The KITCHEN CABINET

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

When cooking cabbage, onions or any of the highly flavored vegetables, leave the dish uncovered while cooking.

After preparing celery for the table, save the tops and small bits for soup and stews.

The green tops of horseradish will grow again if planted. For colds, a few drops of turpentine, four or five, on loaf sugar, will break up a cold in one night. If the cold is in the head, a good greasing of the nasal passages and the outside of the nose with carbolated vasoline is a great relief.

A severe cold on the chest may be relieved by a good greasing of lard and turpentine, one part turpentine to two parts lard.

Cough Medicine.—Boil two ounces of flax seed with a quart of water. Strain, and add two ounces of rock candy, a half pint of honey, the juice of three lemons. Boil all together until well mixed. Let cool and bottle. Two tablespoonfuls, taken hot, is a good dose.

Another fine cough cure is sliced onions, sprinkled with sugar and put into the oven in a granite dish to cook. When the onions are dark brown the syrup will be ready to use.

A glass of warm milk taken before retiring is a good sleep producer. Hot milk is a good drink to take before starting out into the cold, as it warms and nourishes at the same time.

Beets are fattening, and they are a food which should appeal to the thin woman.

Do not leave meat wrapped in paper. The meat is not only flavored by the paper, but the paper will absorb the juices of the meat.

When making French dressing, a small piece of ice in the salad bowl will make dressing thick and well blended.

The water in which a mutton stew is cooked or a leg of lamb boiled is a good basis for a soup.

Very Good Business.

The wife of a wealthy business man of Chicago was the daughter of a policeman. As they grew rich, both she and her husband concealed the fact as much as possible, for the sake of their social prestige. At a luncheon several society women of high position had been talking about their families. "What was your father's business, Mrs. D?" was finally asked of the business man's wife. Mrs. D. was not disturbed. "My father was in the copper business," she said with cool emphasis.

Young people who get into the London prisons have been carefully examined during the last ten years by the medical authorities and they are found to be two inches shorter and 14 pounds lighter than the average of the youthful industrial population. Twenty-six per cent. of these young offenders suffer from some physical disease or deformation or mental defect.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

THE other day I heard a man complaining very bitterly because a newspaper, which had published an untrue story about him on its first page, and had been forced by him to retract, had buried the retraction in a very obscure corner of one of the inside pages. Probably less than one in ten of the people who read the original story, he pointed out, would see the retraction.

Everyone who listened to his complaint rallied with him against the injustice of the newspaper. And yet, I doubt if there was one among them who had not done the same thing at one time or another.

Suppose you loan your best umbrella to a friend of yours, telling him at the time that you are particularly fond of it because it is the last present which your father gave you. Your friend at first protests against taking it at all, but finally accepts it, assuring you upon his honor that it shall come back to you the very next day.

The umbrella does not return the next day, nor for many days thereafter. When it comes up for discussion in a group of your friends, you feel yourself justified in telling the incident and making some pretty strong animadversions on its character. Just after this, it appears bringing the umbrella, and explains, with a sincerity and contrition which leave no room for doubt of him, that he was called out of town early the next morning on most important business, that he turned the umbrella over to his sister with strict instructions to carry it to you personally, that her little boy was taken ill that very day and taken by her to an out-of-town hospital, that the umbrella was naturally overlooked in the confusion, and that his very first act on returning to town was to bring it to you.

Of course, you accept his explanation with protestations that you knew something unexpected must have happened, that you felt sure your umbrella was perfectly safe in his possession, and—rather incompetently—that you really hadn't thought of the matter at all. And, of course, you change your harsh estimate of it, and thereafter make no more animadversions on his lack of courtesy when he chances to be discussed in your presence. But tell me this—do you go to all these people before whom you told the story of the umbrella, and repeat to them its explanation, and apologize for having judged him too hastily and harshly? I fear not. I very much suspect that you publish your retraction away down in some obscure corner of the inside pages of your conversation.

They say that if you give a lie a five minutes' headstart, the truth will hardly catch up with it in a hundred years. Probably this is because we seldom bother to tell the commonplace truth to so many people as the more picturesque lie.

We all make mistakes in our estimates of people occasionally. We can't help that. We all express to others our mistaken opinions once in a while. Being human, I don't suppose we can help that. But if we truly want to be just and square—and a love of the "square deal" is supposed to be a strong American characteristic—we can try to give our retraction as wide publicity as our original story, and if any way possible, in the same quarters.

UP-TO-DATE HOUSEKEEPING.

Economy in Cooking at Home—Seasonable Things to Eat.

By Alice E. Whitaker.

Several women were discussing their bills for food when one summed the matter up by saying: The reason my bills are the smallest is because I do my own cooking and I don't buy cooked stuff from outside. There is a deal of truth in what she said and yet she had forgotten to count the item of fuel in her own expenses as in fact they all had. If fuel is expensive some very inexpensive foods become costly. The cost of fuel is always included in the price of food bought at the delicatessen shops and along with that goes also rent and labor.

The closest and best economy is shown when a housekeeper understands her business and other does the work herself or proves a good general. But after all, when it is extravagant for one woman to buy ready-cooked foods it may be economy for another whose time brings better results in some other direction provided of course that the quality of food is not lowered to the injury of health.

Almost no woman can afford to slight her marketing but the chief trouble is that she is herself so often ignorant of how to buy. Once a woman who could cook well was supposed to know all that was necessary about food. Now she must know how to buy and to cook just enough for the prevention of waste is more important now than it has ever been because every scrap of food has more value than it ever had before.

An orange omelet is a suitable dish for luncheon. Beat the yolks of two eggs until they grow light colored, add two tablespoons of orange juice, two slightly rounded teaspoons of sugar and a very little grated lemon rind. Beat the whites of the eggs until stiff, fold in the beaten yolks and turn into an omelet pan in which a teaspoon of butter is melted. Brown slowly on the under side and spread with chopped sweetened orange pulp and fold.

Curried eggs are good for those who like curry. Cut six hard boiled eggs into quarters. Make a sauce from two level tablespoons each of flour and butter and a pinch of salt and a cup of strained broth. Cook ten minutes and add a rounded teaspoon of curry and when the sauce boils up add the eggs and heat through.

For cheese omelet beat the yolks of three eggs light, add three tablespoons of milk, a pinch of salt and last the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Melt a level tablespoon of butter in the omelet pan turn in the mixture and when it browns on the under side sprinkle a rounded tablespoon of finely grated cheese over the top, fold and serve at once.

Beat the whites of one egg until stiff and put into a small or individual buttered omelet pan. Make a hollow in the center and put in the yolk without breaking it. Cover and cook three minutes, slip a knife under and transfer to a warm plate. Dust with salt and pepper and a bit of butter and serve as a fairy egg.

As a variation on the ordinary lemon pie try a lemon custard. Put the juice of one lemon and half the yolks of two eggs into a bowl with one cup of sugar and beat. Add the yolks of three eggs and one whole egg, a pinch of salt and beat all together for three minutes.

Heat two cups of milk in a double boiler and add a rounded tablespoon of flour rubbed smooth in a little cold milk. Cook three minutes and the first mixture, turn into a paste-lined plate and bake. When partly cool cover with a meringue made from the whites of three eggs and one-quarter cup of powdered sugar. Color in the oven.

DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

FOOD VS. MEDICINE.

Dr. F. Magendie, the celebrated French physician, says, in one of his published lectures: "When I was chief physician at Hotel Dieu hospital, Paris, some 3,500 patients passed through my hands during a year. Before my term expired I tried the experiment of giving one-half of the patients that were then present no medicine at all; the rest the usual medical treatment. The former were given, instead, only what is known as 'food and simple remedies,' and, to my unbounded surprise, they all got well—not a single death; while among those receiving medical treatment the customary number of deaths occurred. A second trial yielded a like result, and I was converted. Ever since I have given but little medicine to my patients." This is the practice of most sanitariums now, and especially of the tubercular sanatoriums, in which food is the essential treatment. While it is not probable that medicines will be entirely eliminated, diet will be the chief means of cure in all cases in the future, as it now is in diabetes, rheumatism, consumption, Bright's disease and others.

FEARFUL BURNING ITCH WAS CURED

By Cuticura Soap and Ointment.
Another Man Had Itching on Scalp.
Hair Fell Out, Leaving Bald Spots.
Now Hair Has Grown, Thanks to Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

"I deem it my duty to tell about a cure that the Cuticura Soap and Ointment have made on myself. My trouble began in my scalp itching out right in the center of my hair on the forehead, and spread over the front part of the top of my head from ear to ear, and over my ears which caused a most fearful burning itch, or eczema. For three years I had this terrible itching out on my forehead and scalp. I tried our family doctor and he failed to cure it. Then I tried the Cuticura Soap and Ointment and used them for two months with the result of a complete cure. Cuticura Soap and Ointment should have the credit due, and I have advised a lot of people to use them." (Signed) E. D. Harrington, Creek, N. C., Jan. 26, 1911.

"I will say that I have been suffering with an itching on my scalp for the past few years. My hair fell out in spots all over my head. My scalp started to trouble me with sores, then the sores healed up, and crusts formed on the top. Then the hair fell out in spots. I went to more than one doctor, but could not get any relief, so I started to use the Cuticura Remedies. I tried one bar of Cuticura Soap and some Cuticura Ointment, and felt better right away. Now the bald spots have disappeared, and my hair has grown, thanks to the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I highly recommend the Cuticura Remedies to all that are suffering with scalp trouble." COUNTY CLERK LEE RECEIVED ORDERS TO FOLLOW COPY?

TOLD BY SECRETARY OF STATE
FREAR THAT DESIGNATION OF LA FOLLETTE AND WILSON MUST BE PRINTED.

RULING IS ARBITRARY

Matter Has Caused Considerable Discussion Throughout the State—
Is It a Violation of the Election Laws?

County Clerk Lee has received final orders from Secretary of State Frear to follow copy in printing the election notices and designation of La Follette and Wilson delegates as sent out by the secretary of state. Mr. Lee was of the opinion that the election laws were not conformed with and in this was backed up by some of the best authorities in the state. However, Mr. Frear's word is final and the results will be watched with interest.

The situation in other counties is just the same and in Milwaukee 12, 12, Phillip, head of the Taft movement in this state, and also a candidate for delegate-at-large on his ticket, gives out the following interview:

His Statement.

"I have just been informed that the secretary of state has certified the names of candidates for delegates to a party national convention as those favoring La Follette as 'La Follette delegates,' and those favoring Wilson as 'Wilson delegates,' and I understand that the county clerk is going to make up the ballot in this way," said 12, 12, Phillip Friday night.

"No such designation being made for Taft or Clark delegates."

"I believe there is no such authority in law for such designations. I had supposed that the candidate could designate the party or principle which he represented, and if he complied with the law, he was entitled to have such party or principle designation on the head of the column of the ballot upon which his name appears. I did not, and do not believe that the candidate has the right in connection with his own name to have any designation of his belief in any particular candidate, neither do I believe that it is permissible under the rules of designating the party or principle to state a preference for some particular individual. Whatever our preferences may be for individuals, such preferences are neither party designations nor designations of political principles. A man may believe in the same principles as another, and he may therefore favor that individual, but his choice of political individual is not a matter of political principle. Violation of the Law."

"Aside from this, I believe that this is a direct violation of not only the primary act, but the particular act providing for the election of delegates to national conventions. Any examination of this act leads me to believe that the legislature intended that the form of ballot contained in these acts should be substantially followed. The primary law and the particular act for delegate elections both specify not only in the act, but in the form of ballot contained in the act, that party designations and statements of principles belong at the head of the column. Manifestly, if each candidate can, in connection with his own name, in whatever column his name may be placed, insert a five-word platform the spirit of the law is, it seems to me, entirely brushed aside."

"The election of delegates to a party convention is, after all, a party function. The state, no doubt, has a certain right to regulate such election. However, the convention to which the delegates are elected is, in the end, the judge of the principles to which a delegate must subscribe in order to be eligible to participate in its deliberations. If a candidate for delegate to the republican national convention desires to have a designation which is in repugnance to the designation of 'republican,' as that word appears at the head of the column, no doubt any candidate is at liberty to take such a chance; but, of course, he runs the risk of having the national body differ with him and deny him a seat."

System Blinds Delegate.

"If, for example, the so-called

La Follette delegates should choose the designation of 'Insurgents' instead of La Follette delegates, they could hardly expect the national convention to accept that designation as being in harmony with the principles of the republican party unless a majority of the convention should be Insurgents.

"As a further illustration, it is a well known fact that Senator La Follette advocates woman suffrage. The national republican party has not yet subscribed to that principle. Suppose that the national republican platform does not contain a woman suffrage plan, which is altogether likely; would not the delegates, if any are elected, under the designation of La Follette delegates, be morally bound to attack Mr. La Follette, even though their candidate was not in harmony with the republican platform? In other words, the system blinds the delegate to the man and does not permit him to act with his party."

"Another serious objection, if those numerous election laws are to be followed, is that the particular candidate may through this device obtain an advantage which the law never intended he should have. Both the primary and the particular delegate act aim at uniformity at the make up of the ballot, and unquestionably aim to give no one candidate in a column and designation, or any position, which is not enjoyed by the others in the same column."

Taft Not Jeopardized.

"In this particular instance, the interests of President Taft are not jeopardized, because there are only two sets of delegates in the republican column as the ticket is being printed. The voters who wish to vote for President Taft will, I am sure, not vote for a candidate who is designated as 'La Follette delegate.' Speaking for the candidates who are in the republican column, without other designation, I feel that I have a right to say that we will be entirely satisfied to receive the vote of the men who are willing to vote the straight republican ticket. It has the further merit, that none of the voters who wish to vote for President Taft will vote for La Follette by mistake; nor do we wish to defeat Mr. La Follette by votes that were intended for him. It seems to me that the 'republican' is after all the real test, that the republican convention should be made up of men who subscribe to the principles of the party as embodied in that word."

SAVED FROM DEATH IN CABIN FLOATING TOWARD WATERFALL

Aged Mountaineer, Whose Home
Was Set Afloat By Floods,
Rescued Just Before It
Plunged Over Cliff.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Union Town, Pa., March 23.—William McDowell, an aged mountaineer, who lives alone near here owes his life to the heroism of Charles Hardy, a neighbor and John Hardy the 19 year old son of the later.

Awakened early today by cries for help the older Hardy went to the door of his mountain home which stands near the shore of Devil's Creek and saw McDowell's cabin floating down the stream.

The creek owing to the recent rains and the melting of the snow in the hills farther back is a raging torrent, overflowing its banks. It swept McDowell's cabin away as the old man lay asleep in his bed.

A short distance before the Hardy cabin was swept over the edge of the bottom of this a sharp jagged rock, the current of Devil's Creek is so rapid that a man must be a swift runner to keep pace with it.

Hardy saw McDowell kneel in the doorway of his floating cabin praying for deliverance. There was not an instant to be lost. The falls were below and imminent death.

Not waiting to don his clothing Hardy raced along the bank of the creek until he had passed the cabin then he plunged into the icy waters of the turbulent stream. It was a desperate chance.

In his ears was the roar of the falls. The racing torrent bore him momentarily to them despite his powerful full breast strokes. It seemed certain that he and the man he had risked his life for must be carried down stream to certain death. When nearly ready to give up a rope swept through the air and fell within reach.

It had been thrown by the imperiled men by John Hardy the 19 year old son, who had come racing along the bank of the creek. The older Hardy grasped the rope and slipped it around his shoulders, but the current was so swift the boy could not haul them in.

The sweep of the current dragged the boy along until the two men in the water were within a few yards of the falls.

The rope had cut into the boys hands and then came to a tree and around this he took a hitch of the rope. It was hope no more. The cabin went over the falls and was dashed to pieces on the jagged rocks below.

Relief Is Expected.

Pittsburg, March 23.—The crest of the flood in the Ohio river caused by the rapid rising of the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers was reached here today from when this stage was 28.1 feet, almost 2 feet less than the weather bureau predicted. Many small streams throughout the western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio are flooded and much damage has been done, but relief from unusual conditions is expected before the day is over.

LA PRAIRIE

La Prairie, March 23.—John McCann of Johnston, and family moved to their new home on the old rector place last Monday.

Miss Edna Strassburg teacher in District No. 1 and pupils are having a four weeks' vacation. District No. 7 is also having a two weeks' vacation.

Farmers residing on the Turtle Creek road, have been greatly inconvenienced the past few days on account of the deep water and great cakes of ice blocking the way. Teams going to the Tiffany Creamery Wednesday morning were forced to go several miles out of their way before reaching their destination.

Mrs. Pearl Chesonore and son, Kenneth, went to Durbin Thursday, for a short visit.

The L. M. H. S. did not meet at the last Wednesday on account of the big storm, but plan to meet on Wednesday, April 3.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

PATRICK HENRY AND SLAVERY.

By A. W. MACY.

Patrick Henry, as every school boy knows, demanded liberty at the top of his voice, and his words still ring in our ears, though his tongue has been silent for a century. Yet Patrick Henry owned 20 slaves, and even at his death did not set them free, but willed them to his wife. It seems strange that so ardent an advocate of freedom for himself should deny it to others. This question of slavery bothered a good many of the revolutionary leaders. Many of them were slave holders, and while they believed in liberty, to have freed their slaves would have been to throw away a large part of their fortunes. Possibly some of our latter-day patriots would hesitate under similar circumstances. To his credit be it said that Patrick Henry appreciated his inconsistency. Writing of slavery he said: "I believe a time will come when an opportunity will be offered to abolish this lamentable evil. . . . I am drawn along by ye general inconvenience of living without them. I will not, I cannot, justify it." In his will he directed that in case his wife married again she should have no more of his estate than she could get by law. She did marry again, without waiting very long; so perhaps he might as well have freed his slaves after all.

ELECTRIC LINE TO MADISON NEXT YEAR

Announced That Janesville-Madison
Spur of Wisconsin Valley
Line Will be Built
In 1913.

After a suspension of several months work on the new Madison-Portage and Madison-Portage du Sac electric railway lines, construction operations will be resumed as soon as weather conditions prove favorable, according to an announcement issued yesterday by the Madison office of the Chicago & Wisconsin Valley Street Railways company. According to present plans work will be started about April 15, when it is thought that the frost will be entirely out of the ground. At the present time lines have been extended to the city limits of Madison and Portage and forces will be put at work at both ends the middle of next month.

The work has been divided into six sections, including lines from Madison to Portage, with branch lines; Middleton Junction to Prairie du Sac; Middleton to Janesville; Portage to Stevens Point; Stevens Point to Wausau and Wausau to Merrill, and two other power plants, one probably to be constructed at Middleton Junction, and the other will probably be located at Wausau.

The line connecting Madison and Portage, including branch roads extending around the lakes and the road connecting Middleton Junction with Prairie du Sac, and the power plant for the southern district includes the work outlined for completion by the company during the present year. During the year 1913 the company will build the lines from Madison to Janesville and from Portage to Stevens Point and will erect a power plant at Wausau to supply power for the northern section. The following year the remainder of the work outlined by the company will be completed, according to the manager of the Madison end of the work.

HARD TO DROP

But Many Drop It.

A young Calif. wife talks about coffee:

"It was hard to drop Mocha and Java and give Postum a trial, but my nerves were so shattered that I was a nervous wreck and of course that means all kinds of ills. (You can find caffeine—the same drug found in coffee and is equally harmful.)

"At first I thought Mocha, Java, coffee and I got it up, but my condition remained unchanged. I did not want to acknowledge coffee caused the trouble for I was very fond of it."

"About that time a friend came to live with us, and I noticed that after he had been with us a week he would not drink his coffee any more. I asked him his reason. He replied, 'I have not had a headache since I left off drinking coffee some months ago, till last week, when I began again, here at your table. I don't see how anyone can like coffee, anyway, after drinking Postum.'"

"I said nothing, but at once ordered a package of Postum. That was five months ago, and we have drank no coffee since, except on two occasions when we had company, and the result each time was that my husband could not sleep, but lay awake and tossed and talked half the night. We were convinced that coffee caused his suffering, so he returned to Postum, convinced that the coffee was an enemy, instead of a friend, and he is troubled no more by insomnia."

"I, myself, have gained 8 pounds in weight, and my nerves have ceased to quiver. It seems so easy now to quit the old coffee that caused our aches and alls and take up Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

When You Place Money on Interest You Want

- 1—Security as Sure as a Government Bond.
- 2—Highest Possible Interest.
- 3—Certainty of Getting Your Money Quickly If Necessary.

Then You Want Our—

Municipal Bonds

THESE Bonds are pledges given by a city or Town or County securing the payment of money borrowed, and the interest on this money.

These pledges, or Bonds, pledge irrevocably to those persons lending the money, all the public property and all the private property; the full faith, credit and resources of that community. They also convey to the holders of the Bonds a special Tax on all the public and private property of the community—this Tax is of the right amount to pay the interest each six months, and to set aside a certain part of the principal, so the full amount borrowed will be ready when the Bonds are due.

Our Municipal Bonds are Accepted by the U. S. Government as Security for the Deposits of its Postal Savings Banks—That Fact Stamps Them as Safe as U. S. Government Bonds.

Our Municipal Bonds pay 5% and 5½% interest. We occasionally have a few that pay 6% interest—but such a rate of interest is very hard to find in combination with the absolute safety which meets the standard of Government Bonds.

Our Municipal Bonds can be readily turned into cash at any time—and this is a most important point for the consideration of anyone intending to invest a large or small sum.

We are issuing a gift booklet giving a clear and simple explanation of Municipal Bonds. We will be glad to present you with one. It will interest and be valued by your wife and son and daughter, as well as by yourself.

STRUGGLE TO A DIZZY ALPINE HEIGHT.

To venture where others fear to tread was the task one of Lyman H. Howe's camera men faced in a recent expedition to untrodden Alpine peaks. It was a dangerous undertaking and one that had hitherto never been attempted, but that is just the reason why this particular photographer wanted to "get there." By "there" is meant the dizzy height of an Alpine summit from which he knew he could photograph scenes of grandeur that would surpass any of a similar kind ever reproduced by a camera. In a sense the task seemed fascinating because the photographer felt the "call of the heights," and his adventurous spirit blinded him to the many dangers which lurked at every turn of the way. His experienced native guides did their best to discourage Laertes were undoubtedly disposed of. When the blow was ready, the noble Hamlet was reverently placed on the crown laid on his breast under his folded hands; and lifted high on the shoulders of the men, he was borne out to the sound of martial music. When the statue was almost clear, the curtain closed. No more impressive ending could be secured, and yet the form is Elizabethan.

"ROSALIND AT REDGATE."

There are some unique and interesting characters in Meredith Nicholson's latest play entitled "Rosalind at Redgate" which comes to the Myers Theatre on Thursday, March 28.

Over the division of property the chief incidents of the story are continued. The character work of every individual part was good and the audience was in the mood during the whole of the evening. The success which the Club is meeting every where this year must be gratifying to those who are responsible for this effort, and will, no doubt, be an incentive to further work along this line another year. The Club would certainly be welcome at Stevens Point.

The Club's production this year of "Dickens' Cricket on the Hearth" has been staged with even more care than last year's comedy "Our Boys," and not only the scenic effects but the acting have been worked out with great care in every detail.

FINDS PORTO RICO A DELIGHTFUL ISLE

F. F. Lewis Writes of Increased Business in Island and General Appearance of Enterprise.

F. F. Lewis who has been spent the past few weeks at San Juan, Porto Rico, writes from that place in regard to the island. He speaks very favorably of the business conditions, the climate and the people. His letter of interest to Gazette readers and is given below:

San Juan, P. R., March 15, 1912.

Janeville Gazette.

Janeville, Wis.

Dear Friends:

With this I send you a copy of the official statement of the business of Porto Rico for the month of February which shows a balance of trade in favor of Porto Rico of over five million six hundred thousand dollars. For the year nineteen hundred eleven the balance in favor of the island was over two million dollars. The large showing for Feb. is due to the fact that the sugar season is at its height.

During the past ten years the population of Porto Rico has increased over twenty per cent. Commerce from seventeen million dollars to more than eighty million dollars per year; exports of sugar from four million dollars to twenty-four million dollars; cigars from three hundred thousand dollars to five million dollars; coffee from one and a half million dollars to five million dollars; fruit from a few hundred dollars to over two million dollars; common labor from thirty-five or forty cents in Mexican silver per day to seventy-five cents in United States coin per day and hard to get at that as one dollar is demanded by the more efficient.

Values of all kinds are rapidly approaching the level of those in the States. New buildings are being erected in San Juan on all sides.

The atmosphere everywhere is of thrift and enterprise. The people are clamoring for citizenship and at this writing I can see no reason why they should not have it.

The climate at this season is certainly delightful. The temperatures for San Juan for the past week were highest 87 degrees, lowest 69 degrees, the rainfall .028 of an inch. The trade winds from the southeast are constant and very refreshing.

BACKACHE ALMOST UNBEARABLE.

Is an almost certain result of kidney trouble. D. Courtney, 803 1/2 Olive St., Bloomington, Ill., says: "I suffered with backache and pains in my kidneys which were almost unbearable. I gave Foley's Kidney Pills a good trial, and they done wonders for me. Today I can do a real hard day's work and not feel the effects." Foley's Kidney Pills will cure any case of kidney and bladder trouble not beyond the reach of medicine. No medicine can do more. Badger Drug Co.

The scenes of the play are located near Annandale in Indiana, near the Glenmar mansion made famous in "The House of a Thousand Candles." In fact, the play is described as "A Near Neighbor to the House of a Thousand Candles."

"Rosalind at Redgate" in book form has been recorded one of the largest sales given any play of recent fiction, and as a play is proving the popular success of the present season.

his enthusiasm and referred to the many tragic deaths that had occurred during attempts to ascend less perpendicular cliffs than that which towered over them, but the camera man's courage stood the severest test. The guides could not conceive anyone so daring as to face such perils "merely to take pictures," they said. In reply the "knight of the camera" impressed the fact that it was his vocation to gratify public curiosity by conquering new worlds with his camera, and that a new world existed for him on that summit above the clouds. Like a surgeon who stands ready to risk his life on some experiment, this photographer stood ready to risk his death in an effort to secure a photographic masterpiece. This determination finally inspired the same feeling in his guides and so they started, but after they were half way to the summit they were all sorry that such a perilous climb had been undertaken. There were so many moments of suspense when they literally hung between life and death that the "nervy" photographer came near to being a nervous wreck. But he kept on assuring himself that he was no "quitter" and as the dangers increased he took a stronger grip than ever on his professional self and hung on to that for want of more tangible support. His bravery was eventually rewarded by the triumphant scenes which Mr. Howe will present at the Myers Theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday, March 26 and 27, matinee Wednesday 27.

Now wonders of the Grand River Canon, Colorado, an elaborate series entitled "Our Navy" showing the greatest fleet of battleships ever assembled under the Stars and Stripes, the flight of a hydroplane through water and air, a pictorial tour revealing the wonders of art and history in Rome, Pisa and Florence, the marble quarries of Carrara, during Italian horsemanhood, and hunting by aeroplane are but a few of the many other scenes of vital interest showing the very latest achievements of human endeavor.

SOTHERN AND MARLOWE'S ENDING OF "HAMLET" COMMENDED.

Prof. Victor B. Albright, of Columbia University, in his lately published work "The Shakespearean Stage," has an interesting reference to Sothern and Marlowe's arrangement of the last act of "Hamlet," in which he says: "The only satisfying ending that I have ever seen to 'Hamlet' in the modern stage was one (and that, Sothern and Marlowe's) in which all the characters passed out before the curtain closed. The king fell on one side of the stage near Laertes and the queen on the other. As Hamlet felt his end drawing near, he made his way to the throne and there died in the arms of his faithful friend, Laertes. Forthwith and his men they entered. At the request of Horatio, the future king ordered all the dead bodies to be taken to a public stage, but that of Hamlet to be borne there like a soldier by four capableness; and for his passage the soldiers' music and rife of war (to speak loudly for him). While the men were making a temporary litter out of their shields and spears, the king, queen and Pleasin' Alone Allowed Wine.

In celebrating the feast of the dead in Egypt, where each one partook of wine in which the spirit of his ancestor had entered, the question was how much could each one drink, and what quantity was safe, so that the user could carry on the observance of the sacrament without confusion. Finally it was decided that the priests only could drink the wine with safety.

Just Guessing.

During the term instruction had been given as to the visit of the Dutch fleet to the Medway. In examination the following question was put: "Explain the context of the passage, 'This would never have happened if Oliver had been alive.'" One answer was as follows: "This was said when they dug up the body of Oliver Cromwell after the restoration."—Punch.

There's a Limit.

A Harrisburg, Pa., professor says that centipedes are perfectly harmless, and that we should put them on the back instead of swatting them with a slipper for the good they do in this world of ours. This sounds all right for a short talk on science, but we know enough about human nature to imagine what the professor would do if a centipede jumped from the headboard of his bed and tried to use his face for a merry-go-round in the middle of the night.

ELECTION NOTICE

OFFICE OF COUNTY CLERK, March 23, 1912.

To the Electors of Rock County:

Nation is hereby given that a Judicial and national delegate election is to be held in the several towns, wards and election precincts in the County of Rock, on the 2nd day of April, 1912, at which the officers and delegates named below are to be chosen. The names of the candidates for each office and delegates to be voted for, whose nominations have been certified to this office, are given opposite the title of the office or delegates and under the appropriate party or other designation, each in its proper column.

INFORMATION TO VOTERS

The following instructions are given for the information and guidance of voters: A voter upon entering the polling place, and giving his name and residence, will receive a ballot from the ballot clerk, which must have endorsed thereon the names or initials of both ballot clerks, and no other ballot can be used. Upon receiving his ballot, the voter must retire alone to a booth or compartment, and prepare the same for voting. A ballot clerk may inform the voter as to the proper manner of marking a ballot, but he must not advise or indicate in any manner whom to vote for. If a voter wishes to vote for some of the candidates of different political parties, he should make a cross to vote for. If a voter wishes to vote for a certain office, whose name is not on the ballot, he must write the name in the blank space under the printed name of the candidate for the office. In voting for delegates at large, name in the blank space under the printed name of the candidate for the office. In voting for delegates at large, place a cross at the right of the names for whom you wish to vote, but vote for only four. District delegates place a cross at the right of the names you wish to vote for, but vote for only two. The ballot should not be marked in any other manner. If the ballot is spoiled it must be returned to the ballot clerk, who must issue another in its stead, but not more than three in all to any one voter. Five minutes' time is allowed in booth to mark ballot. Unofficial ballots or memoranda to assist the voter in marking his ballot can be taken into the booth and may be used to copy from. The ballot must not be shown so that any person can see how it has been marked by the voter. After it is marked it should be folded so that the inside cannot be seen, but so that the printed endorsements and signatures of the ballot clerks on the outside may be seen. Then the voter should pass out of the booth, or compartment, give his name to the Inspector in charge of the ballot box and his ballot to be placed in the box and depart from the voting place. A voter who declares to the presiding officer that he is unable to read, or that by reason of physical disability he is unable to mark his ballot, can have assistance of one or two election officers in marking the same, to be chosen by the voter, and if he declares that he is totally blind he may be assisted by any person chosen by him from among the legal voters of the county. The presiding officer may administer an oath, in his discretion, as to such person's disability. The party designations and candidates for the different offices are, for example, as follows:

SIDEWALK SKETCHES.

THE BANK.

By Howard L. Rahn.

The bank is a philanthropic institution which confers a favor upon society by borrowing people's money at 3 per cent and lending it out at 7.

The banker is a man who is paid a large salary for a telling wobbly press where the jumping-off spot is located. Banks are built of marble and granite, in order to prevent somebody who needs a little ready money from reaching in with a bag of ultra glycerine and demolishing him self with the cash on hand. In spite of this precaution, every once in a while some bank cashier is backed up against the adding machine, and requested to translate the thick lingo from the original Hebrew, while some men in pea jackets carry away everything in sight but the overdrafts. The banks have built up a flourishing and profitable industry, pursued with ceaseless energy by a certain class of citizens, who go through a steel vault like a bareback rider through a hoop, and who evade the police by effecting a change of neckties. It occasionally happens that one of these gentry is trapped before somebody can bail him out, after which he is photographed from all points of the compass, fed into a shower bath, measured for a new suit of striped clothes, and taught how to dance the lock step. Banks are usually kept by cashiers, who sometimes keep all of the visible assets until they get over into Canada. A run on a bank occurs whenever a cashier blows out in a new spring overcoat, or donates $25 to the Y. M. C. A. A bank examiner is a merciless and paying individual, who irritates the board of directors by requiring them to put up some collateral security against their loans. Banks have prevented a great many people from going broke sooner than they intended to, and therefore we should hold them in grateful esteem.

All It Had Been Represented to Be.

BY WALT MASON

Old Box is worth a million wheels, he has them in the bank, it warns him up from head to heels to hear his bullion clank. His wealth is famous in the town, and all the country o'er, he has his million salted down, and takes around for more. We point him out most every day to strangers and such ducks, and in an earnest whisper say: A MILLION "It's worth a million bucks!" That's the extent of his renown; no natives ever cry: "He is a credit to the town—would miss him should he die!" There is old Bill Wax; he never could null the coin a little bit, and when he gets a piece of kale it's always counter-felt. He's always wearing last year's hat; his clothing, all new, would make an idle plutocrat climb up a tree and die. Yet friends are swarming round his truck wherever he may go, and people snap him on the back and say he is a Joe. He helps the children with their jobs, and much enjoys the trick; and often he sits up at night with neighbors who are sick; anon he brings a cheerful yarn to some despondent lady—oh, William isn't worth a darn at salting down the seeds, but people bless his blundered old hide, and cry in fervent tones: "He's sure all wool and ten yards wide—he's worth a million bones!"

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

How Mrs. Reed of Peoria, Ill., Escaped The Surgeon's Knife.

Peoria, Ill.—"I wish to let every one know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. For twenty years I suffered. The doctor said I had a tumor and the only remedy was the surgeon's knife. My mother bought me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today I am a well and healthy woman. For months I suffered from inflammation, and your Sanative Wash relieved me. I am glad to tell anyone what your medicines have done for me. You can use my testimonial in any way you wish, and I will be glad to answer letters."—Mrs. CHRISTINA REED, 105 Mound St., Peoria, Ill.

Mrs. Lynch Also Avoided Operation.

Jessup, Pa.—"After the birth of my fourth child, I had severe organic inflammation. I would have such terrible pains that it did not seem as though I could stand it. This kept up for three long months, until two doctors decided that an operation was needed. "Then one of my friends recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after taking it for two months I was a well woman."—Mrs. JOSEPH A. LYNCH, Jessup, Pa.

THE BEST PROOF

Janesville Citizens Cannot Doubt It.

Donn's Kidney Pills were used—they cured.

The story was told to Janesville residents. Time has strengthened the evidence. Has proven the cure permanent. The testimony is home testimony.

The proof convincing. The story was told to Janesville residents.

Mrs. E. J. O'Brien, 1020 W. Bluff St., Janesville, Wis., says: "It is with pleasure that I recommend Donn's Kidney Pills. I have used them and know whereof I speak when I say that they are a reliable kidney medicine. For ten years I suffered from kidney complaint but since using Donn's Kidney Pills, procured at the People's Drug Store, I have enjoyed better health. I hope that my statement will lead other kidney sufferers to try Donn's Kidney Pills." (Statement given in August, 1910.)

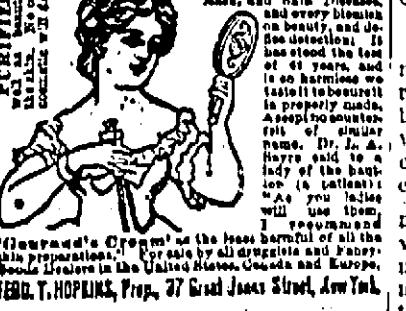

When Mrs. O'Brien was interviewed on September 23, 1910, she added to the above: "I am still glad to say a word in praise of Donn's Kidney Pills. Occasionally during the past two years, when I have needed a kidney medicine, I have taken this remedy and the results have always been satisfactory."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

THE WAY OF A MAN

By EMERSON HOUGH

Copyright, 1911, by the Oosting Publishing Company

"Yes," I said to her, "A man is a toy. Love was born before man was created, before animals or plants. Adam ran to Adam, seeking. It was love." She pondered yet a while. "And what is it, then, John Cowles, that women call 'wrong'?"

"Very often what is right," I said to her, "is that they shall not wed. When they do not love, the crime is when they do wed."

"But without marriage," she hesitated, "the home—"

"It is the old question," I said, "The home is built on woman's virtue, but virtue is not the same where there is no home, no property, where there is no society."

"What is marriage, John Cowles?" she asked me.

no society. It is an artificial thing, born of compromise, and grown stronger by custom of the ages of property owning man."

I saw a horror come across her eyes. "What do you say to me, John Cowles? That what a woman prizes is not right, is not good? No, that I shall not think!" She drew apart from me.

"Because you think just as you do, I love you," I said.

"Yet you say so many things. I have taken life as it came, just as other girls do, not thinking. It is not free, it is not clean, that girls should study over these things. That is not right."

"Not that is not right," said I dully.

"Then tell me what is marriage, that one thing a girl dreams of all her life, is it of the church?"

"It is not of the church," I said.

"Then it is the law."

"It is not the law," I said.

"Then what is it?" she asked. "John Cowles, tell me what makes a wedding between two who really and truly love? Can marriage be of but two?"

"Yes," said I.

"But there must be witnesses, there must be ceremony, else there is no marriage," she went on. Her woman's brain clung to the safe, sane groove which alone can guide progress and civilization and society—that great, cruel, kind, imperative compromise of marriage without which all the advancement of the world would be as naught. I loved her for it. But for me, I say I had gone savage. I was at the beginning of all this, whereas it remained with her as she had left it.

"Witnesses?" I said. "Look at those!" I pointed to the mountains. "Marriage," many of them, have been made with no better witnesses than those."

My heart jumped when I saw how far she had jumped to her next speech. "Then we two are all the people left in the world, John Cowles? When I am old will you cast me off? When another woman comes into this valley, when I am bent and old and cannot see, will you cast me off and, being stronger than I am, will you go and leave me?"

I could not speak at first. "We have talked too much," I said to her presently. But now it was she who would not desist.

"You see, with a woman it is far better, for worse, but with a man—"

"With a man?" I said, "It is also for better, for worse. It is one woman."

She sat and thought for a long time. "Suppose," she said, "that no one ever came."

Now with swift remorse I could see that in her own courage she was feeling her way, haltingly, slowly, toward solution of problems which most women take ready solved from others. But, as I thank God, a filmy veil, softening, retelling, always lay between her and reality. In her tentativeness she held hold upon my arm, her two hands clasped.

"Suppose two were here, a man and a woman, and he swore before those eternal witnesses that he would not go away any time until she was dead and laid away up in the trees, to dry away and blow off into the air and go back?"

"Into the flowers," I added, choking.

"Yes, into the trees and the flowers—so that when she was dead and he was dead and they were both gone back into the flowers, they would still know each other forever and ever and never be ashamed—would that be a marriage before God, John Cowles?"

"What had I brought to this girl's creed of life, heretofore always so sweet and usual? I did not answer. She shook at my arm. "Tell me," she said, but I would not tell her.

"Suppose they did not come," she said once more. "It is true, they may not find us. Suppose we two were to live here alone all this winter, just as we are now, none of my people or yours near us. Could we go on?"

"God! Woman, have you no mercy?"

She sat and pondered for yet a time as though seriously weighing some question in her mind.

"But you have taught me to think, John Cowles. It is you who have begun my thinking, so now I must think. I know we cannot tell what may happen. I ask you, John Cowles, if we were brought to that state which we were here alone and no one came, and if you loved me—ah, then would you promise forever and forever to love me (all death did us part)—I was gone back into the flowers? I remember what they say at weddings. They cling one to the other, forsaking all others, till death do them part. Could you promise me in that way? Could you promise me, clean and solemn? Because I would not promise you unless it was solemn and clean and unless it was forever."

It seemed that I saw into her heart. I dropped my hands from my eyes and looked at her straightly. My own brain in a whirl, my logic gone. All I knew was that then or elsewhere, whether or not rescue ever came for us, whether we died now or later, there or anywhere in all the world, I would, indeed, love her and her only, forsaking all others until, indeed, we were gone back into the sky and flowers, until we whirled again in the trees, one into the other. Marriage or no marriage, together or apart, in sickness or in health—so there came to me the stern conviction—love could knock no more at my heart, where once she had stood in her courage and her cleanness. Reverence, I say, was now the one thing left in my heart. Still we sat and watched the sun shine on the distant white topped peaks. I turned to her slowly at length.

"Ellen," I said, "do you indeed love me?"

"How can I help it, John Cowles?" she answered bravely. My heart stopped short; then raced on, bursting all control. It was long before I could be calm as she.

"You have helped it very long," I said at last quietly. "But now I must know. Would you love me anywhere, in any circumstances, in spite of all? I love you because you are you, not because you are here. I must be loved in the same way always."

She looked at me now silently, and I leaped and kissed her full on the mouth.

She did not rebel or draw away, but there was that on her face, I say, which left me only reverent. Her hand fell into mine. We sat there plighted, plighted in our rugs and misery and want and solitude. Though I should live twice the allotted span of man, never should I forget what came into my soul that hour.

After a time I turned from her and from the hills and from the sky and looked about us at the poor belongings with which we were to begin our world. All at once my eye fell upon one of our lighter robes, now fairly white with much working. I drew it toward me, and with her still leaning against my shoulder I took up a charred stick, and so laboriously I wrote upon the surface of the hills these words of our covenant:

"I, John Cowles, take thee, Ellen Meriwether, to be my lawful wedded wife."

Again she paused, and so concluded, "Till death do us part."

wife, in sickness and in health, for better or for worse, till death do us part." And I signed it and made a seal after my name.

"Write," said I to her; "write as I have written."

She took a fresh brand blackened at the end and in lesser characters wrote slowly letter by letter:

"I, Ellen Meriwether, take thee, John Cowles, to be my lawful, wedded husband." She paused, but I would not urge her, and it was moments before she resumed—"In sickness and in health, for better or for worse"—Again she paused, thinking, and so concluded, "Till death do us part."

"It means," she said to me simply as a child, "until we have both gone back into the flowers and the trees."

I took her hand to mine, Mayhap book and bell and organ peal and vested choir and high ceremony of the church may be more solemn, but I, who speak the truth from this very knowledge, think it could not be.

"When you have signed that, Ellen," I said to her at last, "we two are man and wife, now and forever, here and any place in the world. That is a binding ceremony, and it endows you with your share of all my property, small or large, as that may be. It is a legal wedding, and it holds us with all the powers the law can have. It is a contract."

"Do not talk to me of contracts," she said. "I am thinking of nothing but our wedding."

Still mystical, still enigma, still woman, she would have it that the stars, the mountains—the witnesses—and not ourselves, made the wedding. I left it so, sure of nothing so much as that, whatever her way of thought might be, it was better than my own.

"But if I do not sign this?" she asked at length.

"Then we are not married."

She sighed and laid down the pen. "Then I shall not sign it yet," she said.

I caught up her hand as though I would write for her.

"No," she said; "it shall be only our engagement, our truth between us. This will be our way. I have not yet been sufficiently wooed, John Cowles!"

I looked into her eyes and it seemed to me I saw there something of the same light I had seen when she was the misty comrade of the army ball—the yearning, the melancholy, the mysticism, the challenge, the invitation and the doubting—ah, who shall say what there is in a woman's eye! But I saw also what had been in her eyes each time I had seen her since that hour. I left it so, knowing that her way would be best.

Ask any lucky owner "Why" and you will learn that a Holland Furnace gives such an abundance of fresh, warm air, is so clean and easy to operate, so durable and free from repairs and so very saving in fuel, that it cannot help but delight any user.

The cold winter in January proved to many people that stoves are inadequate when cold weather comes and many others learned, to their sorrow, that steam and hot water are also sadly lacking when it comes to a real test. Our sales since the cold spell have more than doubled over the same period for any other year.

We can "Make your home a place where life is worth living." Just call on our local Branch Manager, or write for free book, "Holland Service From Factory to You." We have many "Warm Friends" in your city and vicinity. Why not you?

Have learned to read Gazette "Want" ads for openings. They are ambitious and industrious. They are the kind that later make the bone and sinew of a business.

To reach them you have merely to use the Help Wanted columns of The Gazette. No other method is so effective, for no other method is so generally accepted by these men themselves.
